Sophomore Commission Announced

The nineteen members of the Sophomore Commission for the year 1932-33 were announced in chapel by Miss Mary Moss, Secretary of the "Y."

MY MOTHER'S LOVE

If I were offered the sun and the moon,
And the stars that twinkle above, I'd choose in preference to these three,
The strength of my mother's love.
For—
Clouds will hide the sun And clouds will hide the moon;
The stars too are inconstant, But morning night and noon—My mother's love is true, Her willing hands are near,
Her eyes are always sparkling Her smile always spreads cheer.
She's the animated spirit,
Of those things which give to me,
A feeling of kindness towards the world, Peace and security.

Sophs and Seniors Win Debate Over Frosh and Juniors

In the annual inter-class debate held Saturday evening, the senior-sophomore team defeated the junior-freshman team. The question under discussion was—Resolved: That Russia's Five-Year-Plan threatens the stability of the whole world. Miss Mary Snow Johnson, senior, and Miss Christine Goodson, sophomore supported the affirmative side. The negative side was upheld by Miss Layonia Newman, junior, and Miss Sara Stenbridge, freshman.

The four classes entered the auditorium in separate bodies, each singing its class song after it assembled. A genial spirit of rivalry and suppressed enthusiasm was prevalent throughout the audience. The stage setting was characterized by dignity and formality. Each debater's chair was decorated with her class colors and the tables with flowers carried out the same idea.

Miss Helen Barron, chief executive of the Christian World Education Committee which sponsored the debate, acted as chairman. Miss Bobbie Burns, representative from Cabinet, was teller. The judges were Mrs. Sidney L. McGee, Col. Erwin Sibley, and Mr. Miller S. Bell.

As the first speaker for the affirmative side Miss Mary Snow Johnson made clear to her listeners that the debate was to be pursued from the economic standpoint only. She explained the principles of the Five-Year-Plan and its aims. Her argument was based on the abolition of competition as giving sway to a socialistic form of government and the breaking down of capitalism. Straightforwardness of manner and simplicity of language were outstanding traits of Miss Johnson's part of the argumentation.

Following much applause, lead by the freshman class mainly, Miss Layonia Newman began the proof for the fact that the Five-Year-Plan is not threatening the stability of the world. The plan as an experiment was the general angle taken by Miss Newman. Her strongest point centered around the suppression of individualism in Russia and its results. Attentive listeners gained much from the entire debate but they were especially enlightened by her vivid pictures of Russia and the explanation of the peasant problem in that country.

The affirmative discussion was continued by Miss Goodson. The essence of her reasoning was based on planned economy as a result of Russia's Five-Year-Plan, the effects

Margaret Hightower Returns To Campus

Miss Margaret Hightower, a graduate of the class of '28, was at G. S. C. W. Tuesday for the first time since she received her A. B. degree here. She spoke at chapel.

On the senior class trip of '28, Miss Hightower met Miss Bragg, the owner of the Charleston Museum. It is to this person that she owes her start in the scientific world.

The former G. S. C. student talked with a contagious enthusiasm which held her audience spellbound. In fact, it is probable that museums will have an overflow of G. S. C. W. graduates applying for positions in the future.

When she left G. S. C. Miss Hightower went to the University of Columbia where she received her M. A. degree within a year.

Returning to Charleston, she worked at the museum as an apprentice. At the end of another year of apprenticeship at that place which was "as poor as Job's turkey," the young Georgian unwillingly went to Newark, New Jersey. At the museum there, orders of "Do this, do that, do the other," confronted the former student at every turn and, not being used to such commands, she naturally resented them. However, a change in department relieved the situation, and when Miss Bragg recalled her to Charleston, Miss Hightower regretted leaving the northern city.

Her next museum work, after a few months stay in Charleston, was at Pittsfield, Massachusetts, her present location. She was trained in different departments at the Pittsfield museum and is now head of the science department. She also conducts the Children's Science Club and the Adults' Science Club.

With her, Miss Hightower brought three exhibits representing a Canadian trading post, a Chinese clipper ship, and a nest of a chimney swift, all of which she made herself. Furs of the different Canadian animals and pamphlets completed the first.

Up until recently, Miss Hightower was unable to get away from Pittsfield, but since she is her "own boss" now, the situation is a little improved, and G. S. C. may hope for another visit in less than four years.

The death on Thursday, of Alice, one of Mrs. Hall's cooks, is the cause of much genuine regret among the students of G. S. C. Alice was a great favorite among the girls and will long be remembered because of her smiling face as she served bread and her childish happiness at the dining room Christmas trees.

Dr. Chas. H. Herty Noted Scientist To Visit G. S. C. W.

Dr. Charles Homes Herty, Georgia's own scientist, will honor the Georgia State College for Women with a visit May 16.

Dr. Herty is now with the chemistry and forestry department of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, N. C. He is at present doing research work in South Georgia. His work there is in connection with the pine tree. Dr. Herty is trying to develop pulp for paper making.

The students of Georgia State College for Women feel it a great honor and privilege to have Dr. Herty visit them. Not only are the students and people of Milledgeville, interested in Dr. Herty as a scientist, but also as a former resident of Milledgeville, having been born here December 4, 1867. He attended Georgia Military and Agricultural College from 1880 to 1884, then attended Georgia University, receiving his Ph. D. degree in 1886.

Further education of Dr. Herty, was received at Hopkins (Ph.D. '90); Berlin, '99; and Zurich, 1900.

Dr. Herty was assistant chemist at Georgia State Experiment Station, 1890—1891; instructor in chemistry at Georgia, 1891—1894; adjunct professor, 1894—1902; collaborator, bureau forestry, U. S. Department Agriculture, 1901, 1902; expert, 1902—1904; with Chattanooga Pottery Company, 1904—1905; professor of chemistry, North Carolina, 1905—; dean, school applied science, 1908—; Physical director, Georgia, 1893—1899.

The Doctor's Academy will give a banquet for Dr. Herty in the tea-room of the Georgia State College for Women and the Chemistry club will entertain also in honor of Dr. Herty.

In chapel, Dr. Herty will speak to the students and in the evening of May 16, Dr. Herty will speak to the pupils at the Richard B. Russell Auditorium.

MISS PAULINE SUTTONFIELD WINS ESSAY CONTEST

Miss Pauline Suttonfield, freshman at the Georgia State College for Women, was awarded third prize in the recent essay contest conducted by the Sterchi Furniture Company of Atlanta, Georgia, on the subject: "Why I Prefer Sterchi's For My Selections in Homefurnishings For My Room, Apartment or Home."

Miss Suttonfield's award consists of ten dollars in gold. The essay will be framed and hung in the Sterchi store in Atlanta.

Winner To Raise Banner Friday May 13

May Day Festivities began Thursday afternoon, April 28, and will continue through Friday, May 13, when the victor will raise his banner on front campus. The celebration is being sponsored by the Physical Education Department under the direction of Miss Anna Miller.

FROSH VS. SOPHS

Last week brought the first competitive games of the May Day Festival. The sports were ushered in by a high-spirited baseball game between the freshmen and the sophomores Thursday at 5:30.

During the first innings it seemed as if neither side was ever going to score a run. But that enchanted space was soon broken when the Frosh scored a run. From then on they kept the lead, but not without strong opposition offered by the Sophs.

Well organized team work and strong hitting is largely responsible for the Frosh victory of 22 to 6.

A honor crowd of about 1,000 G. S. C. W. students witnessed the victory of the junior class over the senior class in a volley ball game Friday afternoon at 5:30. The final score was 54 to 29.

This game was the first in the runners-up for the winner of volley ball in the preliminary Field Day activities. The junior team is well organized and fast moving. They will play the winner of the sophomore-freshman game for the ultimate decision.

FROSH VS. SOPHS

The volleyball game between the Freshmen and the Sophomores, held Saturday afternoon, resulted in an overwhelming victory for the Freshmen, the score being 78 to 21. The game was a fast one, and although the score throughout the game was decisive, the Sophomores put up a good fight and accepted defeat like true sportsmen. Excellent passwork was the outstanding feature of the Freshman team.

The championship now lies between the Juniors and the Freshmen and from all indications the game will be a lively one.

The schedule for the competitive games next week is:

Basket Ball

Jr. and Sr. Monday 4:00 May 2nd; Fr. and Soph. Monday 3:00 May 2nd.

Finals

Volley Ball Wednesday 5:30 May 4th; Basket Ball Friday 5:30 May 6th; Base Ball Monday 3:00 May 9th; Relays and Throws Monday 3:00 May 9th.

JUST MOTHER

There is so much known about one's mother. We know that home would not be home without our mothers, that we love them dearly, that we respect their wishes, that a hard lump comes in our throats when we think of life without them, that many times they do without in order that our lives might be more abundant and yet in most cases we allow ourselves to get in such a rut that we are prone to take the greatness of mothers too matter of factly. We understand the respect and attention which are due her but understanding and doing these little things are quite different. We reach the point where if any sacrificing is done, if life is made pleasanter for us due to the efforts of insignificant mother we think "just because it's mother" is sufficient explanation.
Then like the small boy who said,

"I tell you, the very loneliest thing

In this great, big world today Is a boy of ten whose heart is broke Cause his mother is gone away."

We are taught by life the bitter lesson of not appreciating what is ours while we have it.
We realize how differently we could play the game if we were given a second trial. Life's funny that way—she doesn't believe in second trials. It is not too late! This is your chance to do everything you have been leaving undone for the one who—"if you were damned of body and soul, you know whose prayers would make you whole—mother of yours, mother of yours!" Begin now by writing her the letter you forgot to write her last week.

LOYALTY

There is something in human nature that makes one very unappreciative of the things that one has. The flowers in the next field are always the most beautiful and the dress one's roommate has is always the most stylish. Just so it is with college. There are a thousand rules that seem tyrannical, a thousand inconveniences that seem useless. But the other colleges—why, they are paradises on earth!
There the students do nothing but have a good time and get a degree for doing that. Their work-a-day life is quite hidden.

And so, true to human nature, some of us are eyeing others enviously. But let us instead, be different and as Dr. Beeson says, "Count our many blessings." Our campus is surpassed by none in beauty, our faculty is exceptional in its preparedness and brilliance, our dormitories are convenient and beautiful. A new library, beautiful and modern is every respect, is rapidly being built.

Field day with all its glamor and flaring class and school spirit is here. From early morning until lights at night the gymnasium and the campus echo the thrilling songs and spirited pep meetings. The pep and the spirit are very evident but this active enthusiasm will soon be a matter of history. In its place let the steady fire of love and loyalty for our college burn eternally.

DO YOU KNOW THIS BOOK

The greatest seller of all books is the Bible, yet the least appreciated. A book that is the rule and guide of our faith, yet we know it not. A book adaptable to our every mood, yet we seek not its solace. A book that can make us wise unto salvation, yet we neglect it. May not all of us this week seek some of the great truths of this Bible. The following is suggested:

If you have the "blues" read the twenty-seventh Psalm.

If your pocketbook is empty, read the thirty-seventh Psalm.

If people seem unkind, read the fifteenth chapter of John.

If you are discouraged about your work, read the one hundred twenty-sixth Psalm.

If you can't have your own way about everything, keep silent and read the third chapter of James.

If you are all out of sorts, read the twelfth chapter of Hebrews.

If you are losing confidence in men, read the thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians.

If you have discovered something worth while, pass it on.

Cross the Campus

By Philip Space

To whom it may concern:

I have noticed, on several occasions, that students have adorned dormitory rooms with strings of unusual objects. For instance, Janie, Lois and Mildred have stamps; Jo and her roommates simply have paper dolls (Marion S. and M. F. H. had them last year). Others have pictures, comics preferred, etc. I understand that these articles represent days from which one is taken every 48 hours. When they're all gone, so'll we be. Well, well, well!
Maybe that's why teachers are cutting points so regularly. 28 from 70 leaves how much? I haven't a chance!

Miss Margaret Hightower made quite a charming and inspirational talk in chapel the other day. There is one point with which the student body has been accused of disagreeing, to wit, "G. S. C. does not have any 'do this' and 'do that' atmosphere. We have been gravely misunderstood. We agree with her thoroughly. What we object to is the conspicuous presence of 'don't do this' and 'don't do that'."

Miss Margaret seems to have, as she says, taking ways—the furs you know—"I should like to have her accompany me to a dress shop."

Anybody going to Macon? When you do tell Sidney Tidwell hello.
Don't know him? Oh, sure you do.
He's that good looking boy. I knew you'd remember him. The type you'd like to see do the Charleston in a canoe! I mean he's got what it takes to keep floating. Wish he had to stand that exam I'm taking to-morrow'stad of me.

Frances Gowen had a birthday the other day. As a result the Ennis Amateur Musicians have a new member—with a uke!

Rosabel Burch has a new auto, and will gladly take anyone to ride who puts in a request.

My mistake. It was "who puts in gas." Well you know "taxi row" back of Parks—A siphon might help.

I am reprinting a recommendation in which the secretary has, by mistake of course, included every word of the dictator:

Dear Sir:

Miss Rippersnapper has asked me to recommend her for a position in your school next year (praise Allah, she won't be here any longer.) Miss Rs—will receive her B. S. degree in June, majoring in such and such (the easiest thing she could find).
She is a very apt pupil (apt to get into trouble), and has made grades above the average (average dish washer). She has always been willing to give her best efforts and time to her work and is dependable (maybe). I believe she will be quite satisfactory as a teacher (satisfactory for us). We sincerely hope that you will consider seriously, her application. (And how! Anything to keep her from hanging around here year after year for no apparent reason.)

I am sincerely,
MOLLY POLYWOG.

Copies of this, without parenthetical handicaps, may be obtained by request. Only one to each senior.
Well, I am stopping for no other reason than that I'm tired of writing.

Love and best wishes,
PHILIP.

P. S. I understand that Miss Hightower has failed to receive her copies of the Colonnade. This is a grave mistake for which we are sorely grieved. She has missed 11 copies. However, just to show her that our hearts are in the right place, we're mailing her, by special delivery, 12 copies of this week's issue!

breakfast. We don't believe dynamite could move some fair damsels to improve their looks for meals. We also realize that we head the list but for heaven's sake don't tell on us.

We want to know, why someone whose only initial is "A" is privileged to attend anything in chapel or anywhere else and walk about or wiggle as much as she pleases?

There is one confession we must make and that is how much we would like to be poetic so we could write a poem dedicated to the dearest little mother in the world. Do you know that there are so many ways to show our love for "Her". Although every day should be Mother's Day we are glad to have a day set aside for our Mothers! It is with much pride and pleasure that we dedicate this column to the mothers of the daughters of G. S. C. W.

We wonder what a certain Senior's object was in doing a nose dive last Sunday P. M. when she climbed out of a rumble? Maybe? Maybe she isn't accustomed to rumbles or she may have wanted to cause some excitement. At any rate there was excitement galore.

Confessions

Why in the world one room on the back side of Bell Annex—you know the room with the cutes (?) girls—makes it a point to sweep under their bed once every two weeks is more than we can see. We rather think that is an extravagant waste of energy.

The editorial in the paper last week in regard to "personal appearance" has had some weight in our section of the school. We've noticed at least three girls all painted up (not too much so but with that recommended subtle touch) for

Organ Recital

A thousand signs were sent fluttering heavenward ending a thousand and different day dreams as the last majestic then dreamy tones of the great organ faded. Theo's program was ended.

Of course, Theo is known in more dignified circles as Miss Theodosia Hotch, of Brunswick, Georgia, but in spite of that imposing appellation, her music was beautiful. That fact was evidenced by the perfect stillness of the auditorium and the far away looks in the eyes of her audience.

The program opened with "Prelude and Fugue in C Minor" by Bach, and from the first note of the first number, to the last note of the last number, it held the attention of her listeners. Even Bach which is adjudged by musicians to be the backbone of every recital, and which is generally so wearing on the backbones of the audience, was enjoyable. "Within a Chinese Garden" breathed an air of Oriental mystery and charm. The composer, Stoughton, has gained an enviable reputation as a composer of Oriental music. We could well imagine ourselves among the cherry blossoms of a lovely Chinese garden listening to the vague strains of the Chinese flutes.

"Even Song" by Johnston was the climax of the evening. The greatest compliment that could be paid Theo in her beautiful presentation of this selection was pause between the last dying note and the burst of applause which followed. As one listener expressed it, "It made me think of all the beautiful things I'd ever seen."

If you know the story of the little girl whose Christmas gift was a wooden nut cracker, you could appreciate even more the delightful "Dance of the Candy Fairy."

"Dawn" was truly a picture painted in music. First, there was the soft first flush of the morning, then growing brighter with the swelling notes of the organ. The final notes proclaimed the birth of a new day in all its glory.

Miss Hotch's work has improved steadily since she first began, and we predict a bright future lying at her fingertips.

Miss Hotch was ably assisted by Miss Willard Ragan who added her bit of charm to the program with three voice numbers "Pale Moon," "Smiles and Frowns," and "Rose of My Heart." The one she enjoyed singing most was probably "Smiles and Frowns" because in it she put a touch of her own personality and smiles.

Emma Adams Elected As Bell Officer

At a meeting of the Bell Hall Juniors of the Georgia State College for Women, Monday night, Miss Emma Adams of Sycamore, Ga., was elected junior dormitory officer. She will fill the vacancy which appeared at the beginning of the semester when the former junior dormitory officer, Miss Mary Snow Johnson, of Atlanta, was promoted to the senior class.

New "Y" Cabinet Entertained

New "Y" cabinet were guests of "old" cabinet for an informal supper given in the College Tea Room Monday afternoon at 8:00 o'clock.
Gladioli in pastel shades were used as the central feature of decoration and the tea room assumed an informal and gay atmosphere for an informal and gay occasion.

As the guests of honor arrived they were heartily welcomed by old cabinet members who at once commenced the merry-making. Dignity and reserve were cast aside immediately and everybody played games that is, if "leap-frog," and "Marching Round the Levell" still fall in that category.

Tables seating four were arranged in the tea-room and a truly delicious salad was served, assisted by numbers of sandwiches, potato chips, pickles, doughnuts and iced-tea.

Following supper, and a period of about 15 minutes standing (to prevent said salad course from turning into what one reduces for) informality again ruled. "London Bridge" was played and it proved interesting to find out just what girls preferred "boys from Emory" to "Ramblin' Wrecks." A tie was called because the tea room was too small to allow the girls a chance to defend their choice in the "London Bridge" way.
Not a few of cabinet proved adept at blowing the French horn belonging to one of the orchestra.
However some found difficulty in refraining the tongue.

Songs were sung and the party ended in a rush to practice for "Field Day."

IT CARRIES OVER

In this rushing day of over organization we are always hearing the question: "Do the things parents and children study in schools, clubs, and organizations of different kinds carry over and really function in their lives?"

Deep in my heart is always a note of gratitude for the outstanding things I see carrying over in our girls from G. S. C. W. What are these? First, as I might have said to my girls five years ago, is the sweet fineness of our girls.

Since leaving the college, I have had the opportunity of coming in contact with G. S. C. W. girls as teachers, nurses, home-makers, church workers, Pre-school, P. T. A. workers and may other professions.
They still have after varying numbers of years that same old G. S. C.
W. spirit of which every Alumna and faculty member is so justly proud.

G. S. C. girls carry away with them a real sense of responsibility and thoroughness. When they are asked to do something in an organization and promise to do it, there is a feeling of assurance on the part of the leaders that it will be done without a lot of following-up on their part. The G. S. C. girls are dependable.

G. S. C. W. girls radiate a spirit of willingness and helpfulness, and that wonderful spirit of the college is contagious and always appreciated by leaders of any organization.

They are loyal, as a general rule, not only to their Alma Mater, but to whatever causes they pledge themselves.

It is my good fortune to have three of the Alumnae as my neighbors. Here in their homes they are as fine as in any other environment.

I cannot resist the temptation of passing on to the rest of you Alumnae, a remark which a man of some prominence made to me last summer. He said: "The thing I've always liked about your college at Milledgeville is that the young ladies come away not only with very fine college training, but more good common sense than they went there with, and that is not true of all our American women's colleges."

By the way, that reminds me of another remark which a pastor of a large church near Atlanta made to me not long ago. This will be appreciated by the Y. W. C. A. He said: "It is always a real pleasure to find a G. S. C. W. graduate in my church because they always come prepared for real service."

This message to the Colonnade is not meant merely as a complimentary one; but as an expression of appreciation of our college. It is truly a wonderful tool for the development of our Georgia girls.
To the staff of the Colonnade, I wish to extend congratulations and very best wishes.

LATIN CHAPEL PROGRAM

The members of the G. S. C. W.
Classical Guild and Latin classes presented a college banner to the school in chapel April 27, 1932. Miss Brunelle Deal after a short dedication speech, presented the banner to Dr. Daniels, head of the Latin department, who received it in behalf of the college. The banner, itself, was made of brown felt with gold felt letters G. S. C. W. across it.
In the upper portion of it were the gold letters C. G. which represented the Classical Guild.

The program as far as possible was given in Latin. Dr. Daniels read the Latin version of the 103rd Psalm. Following this the entire group repeated the Lord's Prayer in Latin and sang an old Latin hymn, Veni, Creator Spiritus.

Miss Beatrice P. Horsburgh, accompanied by Mrs. Gertrude Allen, rendered a lovely violin selection from Kreisler.

A delightful attraction of the program was the presentation of three of Dr. Daniels' poems. Josephine Redwine, one of his Latin students, read "Georgia" a poem praising the beauties of the Empire State. Anne Pfeiffer, president of the Classical Guild, read "Gold and Brown". Then the group sang as a closing song, "Georgia's Loved State College."

Dr. Daniels ended the program with a Latin benediction, "Gratia Domini nostri Jesus Christi cum spiritu vestro. Amen."

"MOTHER'S MILLIONS" TO BE SHOWN AT AUDITORIUM MAY 7

"Mother's Millions," predicted by Hollywood and New York to prove to be one of the ten best pictures of the year will be shown at the Richard B. Russell Auditorium Saturday night, May 7.

In "Mother's Millions," May Robson, stage star, gives a performance that is endearing her to lovers of the screen as her stage appearances have endeared her to followers of the legitimate stage. She is a Wolf of Wall Street and the manner in which she manipulates millions of dollars to make them do her will is a glory to behold.

Frances Dade carries the ingenious lead with romantic interest being supported by James Hall, Lawrence Gray and Elinor Flynn. Edmond Breese is another talkie favorite with a prominent role. The play was written by Howard McKent Barnes. The picture was directed by James Flood.

SPANISH CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

The April meeting of "El Circulo Español" was held on Thursday, April 28, at five-thirty in Ennis basement. After the reading of the minutes, the members responded to the roll call by giving a Spanish proverb. Immediately after the opening of the session, the treasurer, Sara Morgan, gave a report as to the expenditures for the year and the amount remaining in the treasury.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President—Flora Nelson.
Vice-President—Margaret Clark.
Secretary—Miriam Lanier.
Treasurer—Adrienne Wills.
Chorister—Amelie Burrus.
These officers are to take charge at the last meeting of the year which will be in May. After the election of officers and disposal of all other business, thanks were extended to the retiring officers for their faithful service to the club.

Then the members enjoyed a delightful half hour during which several new Spanish songs were sung and riddles were asked in Spanish.

Redmond—"May I hold your hand?" Virginia—"It isn't heavy. I can hold it."

SOPHS AND SENIORS WIN DEBATE

of the communistic policy, and the threatening of the capitalistic regime of the world. One of her most striking statements was "the comparison of Russia to Theodore Roosevelt: "Whatever you think of her you can't ignore her."

Basing her evidence on the antagonism of the plan to the whole world and the odds of internationalism, Miss Sara Stenbridge closed the main part of the debate. Her knowledge of subject matter, her poise, and her delightful voice brought unwonted admiration from the audience.

The first two speakers from each side gave the rebuttals. It was generally agreed that Miss Johnson's clear cut refutations and dry humor contributed much to the affirma-tive's victory.

During the intermission for the collection of the judge's decision the classes presented a gift, as a token of the class's appreciation for their wonderful work and untiring efforts.

After the reading of the decisions the audience sang the Alma Mater.
